SKILLS AND COMPETENCES

Job-related skills and competences

Which professional competences - through the confrontation with methods, tools and the work culture abroad - has the participant developed? What has she/he done and professionally learned?

The students have learned to design items based on a given stylebook. They also learned to work for an real company and not just for their school. They had to work together with the staff of the hosts school. They had to consider the staff 's opinion as well as the guidelines given in the stylebook. The students learned to use tools such as photoshop and illustrator in a more professional way. The students also learned from each other how to use certain functions of the tools more affectively.

Organisational skills and competences

Has the participant developed the spirit of taking initiative and/or organisational competences ? If yes, which and how?

The students had to use their own initiative to think of items to design and to discuss their ideas with staff/management of the school.

Cultural skills and competences

Did the participant get to know the culture and the habits abroad? If yes, which and how?

The students noticed that Estonians are rather reserved and it required a lot of initiative to communicate. When the ice was broken they realised that Estonians are warm and kind people.

Communication and language skills and competences

Has the participant developed communication and language competences? How?

The students had to communicate exclusively in English in everyday life as well as in their professional work, which increased their ability to speak about graphical design and related topics in English. The students also had to deliver a comprehensive presentation on their work in English to the school's students and staff. That was the first time that they had to speak to a larger audience.

Computer skills and competences

Has the participant developed computer (ICT) competences ? If yes, which?

The students had to use the school's IT environment
